

Zone 1

March 2012 Update

The first prototype of the rescue repository interface has been completed and the code is available on the Berkman Center's GitHub account. After receiving the great news that the project received further funding, Wendy, Andrea and Sebastian met to prioritize the second phase of development work. Wendy and Andrea have been demonstrating the interface to various groups including: The Library Lab Review Committee, attendees at the HILT Fair, archivists and records managers and OIS. We continue to gather use cases for Zone 1. Next we plan to conduct usability testing on the interface and to start designing and developing the next set of enhancements.